Issue 10 > Regions in Transition II: Redefining urban-rural balance in changing times

This issue investigates the contemporary urban-rural divide. The editorial team welcomes articles on rural development and rural entrepreneurship as well as articles discussing typical issues of coastal and peripheral areas, for example looking at the impact of Brexit on fishing and other forms of rural economies. The issue includes contributions on the definition of new territorial borders and processes of spatial development, including city deals in the UK or other forms of regional governance and cross-border cooperation. We welcome also articles debating economic, social and ecological challenges and opportunities in coastal communities and marine spatial planning; the regeneration of rural areas through cooperation across different administrative territories and the changes in the working landscape of rural areas and communities, or the digitization of rural areas.

Issue 10 - to be published in the first week of September 2021 > submission deadline is the 23rd of August
