Issue 21: Transforming Regional Economies

Transforming Regional Economies is the overarching theme for 2025.

As Regions e-Zine launches its 21st issue, we reflect on the legacy of 20 published editions that have explored the dynamics of regional development, policy innovations, and research advancements. With a renewed commitment to engaging a broader audience interested in regional studies and regional science, this issue brings together critical discussions on the future of regional economies in an era of transformation.

We will publish three issues annually and eagerly anticipate your valuable contributions.

Best regards,

Editorial Team
